

New Flag Officer Roles

The Board of the Drummoyne Sailing Club has approved a new structure for our sailing activities to create a focus on on-water coordination, ensuring our assets, storage and risks are well managed and driving greater engagement with our members through social media, social events and other support. This new structure includes the establishment of three new Flag Officer positions and a clarification of the these roles with respect to the role of the Sailing manager.

The new Flag Officer roles are:

- Vice Commodore - responsible for the organisation and management of the sailing side, and associated aspects, of our club
- Rear Commodore – responsible for the organisation and management of our vessels and all the land based aspects of our sailing activities and
- Club Captain - responsible for the engagement of members and the community in the sailing activities of the Club.

These new roles have been established to provide support the delivery of our vision for the sailing activities of the club:

To provide a welcoming and inclusive environment that fosters an enduring passion for sailing.

Sailing Activities Structure

A number of new volunteer “Flag Officer” roles have been established to help lead and coordinate our volunteer efforts – a Vice Commodore, Rear Commodore and Club Captain. These roles will collectively, with the Commodore and Sailing Manager, form the General Committee which will develop and deliver our sailing activities going forward. Each of these Flag Officers will establish roles they need to support them e.g. Principal Race Officer or Shed Captain, and have a committee that meets regularly to ensure coordination within their area of responsibility.
